WHY HIRE

Owned checkout end to end and shipped Stripe Connect in production, not a tutorial repo.

AGENT WRAPPED

Which archetype?

The Architect

Plans the billing model first, then writes the path that compounds.

Which mode?

Claude into Codex

Explores the system in Claude, then ships the webhook in Codex.

When do they ship?

Night owl

Most payment commits land after the room gets quiet.

 stripe-connect

WHY HIRE

Has shipped subscription billing and webhook recovery on a real product, not a resume keyword.

AGENT WRAPPED

Which archetype?

Velocity Machine

Jumps into the failing webhook and ships the recovery path.

How do they steer?

Stops and redirects

Cuts the agent when it touches the wrong billing file.

Longest agent run?

3h 12m

One session chased dunning retries until he stepped in.

Agent traces

Agent traces show how builders reason, debug, test and ship, not just their final code.

2,000+ verified builders

Sourced through hackathons, hacker houses and build nights, not cold applications.

Backed by proof

Every recommendation explains what they shipped, how they worked and why they fit the role. We pull in data from all the sources for a builder.

Don't take our word for it founders and sponsors see the builder signal before the first intro.

I ended up hiring from the Devhouse. I'm super satisfied and this is the kind of talent you don't see in any hackathon.

How we are better

Competitors search for talent. Devlabs creates the signal that identifies it.

01

Event-led sourcing

Hackathons, hacker houses and build nights – not cold applications.

02

Proof before profiles

We watch them code, collaborate and ship before we recommend.

03

Proof-backed signals

We observe how builders code, collaborate and ship before recommending them.

04

Curated shortlists

Founders receive a small, ranked shortlist with clear why-hire evidence, not hundreds of resumes.
